- How important it is for parents to understand the rules of a game they don't even realize that they are playing.
- How a family could be shooting itself in the foot if it does not figure out its aid eligibility before the college list gets finalized!

- How to create a plan of action for getting through the entire process with the least disappointment possible and so that students receive full consideration for all aid available to them.

- A systematic way of determining where a student's best chance of securing the available financial aid.
